

EISENHOWER CONDITION SHOWS PROGRESS

Blonde Surrenders Baby She Kidnaped

Parents Identify Child Given to Catholic Priest

Father Promises Distracted Woman He Will Take No Action

STOCKTON, Calif. (UP)—A wide-spread search for little Robert Marcus ended early today when a distraught blonde who "just wanted a baby of my own" surrendered the child to a Catholic priest.

The baby was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, where his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sanford Marcus, identified him.

"We are 99 per cent certain that it is our baby," said Marcus.

He and his wife were overjoyed at the long search for the baby at last was over. At one point, he and his wife's obstetrician expressed grave fears for her condition when she refused to take any food in her grief.

The baby was stolen from the nursery at San Francisco's Mount Zion Hospital on Sept. 19, two days after he was born. Attendants and other witnesses told police they had seen a heavy-set woman with stringy blonde hair hanging about the nursery at the time.

The self-confessed kidnaper was Mrs. Betty Jean Benedito, 27, wife of Mark B. Benedito, editor of a Filipino newspaper in this farming center.

Same Name as Husband's

Rex Parker, chief of Stockton detectives, said Mrs. Benedito "has the mother instinct — good and strong."

"I just wanted a baby," she sobbed as authorities tried to find out why she stole the child.

"I took this particular baby because his name was Marcus — the same name as my husband's," she added.

Mrs. Benedito turned the child over to Father Allan McCoy, a Franciscan priest at St. Mary's Church, after an off-duty deputy sheriff became suspicious of her late Tuesday night.

The deputy, Oswald J. Vannucci, noticed Mrs. Benedito at the wrestling matches. She was holding an infant in her arms. With her was her husband.

Vannucci questioned them both intensively, then left for sheriff's headquarters to tell his story there. Meanwhile, Mrs. Benedito telephoned Marcus at his home in Daly City, a suburb of San Francisco, to tell him she had his baby.

"I'm going to take him to a Catholic priest," she said.

Marcus promised her he would take no action against her.

Christian Education Needed, Rev. Fuson Says

A spirit of cooperation between the home, church and school is needed to build Christian education, not only here in Harrisburg, but throughout the nation, the Rev. William B. Fuson, pastor of the Dorrisville Baptist church, told members of the Kiwanis club last night at the Masonic temple.

A check made here in Harrisburg in recent years, on an Easter Sunday, showed slightly over one third of the population in church and that was on the Sunday in the year with the highest average attendance. Rev. Fuson stated. That fact, he said, proves the need of Christian education among our young people and for their parents who should not only send their children to church, but bring them.

The three strong points needed for Christian education is the home, church and school, Rev. Fuson stated.

The home is important because that is where Christian education must have its beginning. The school is important and the problem is to make children realize education is a privilege to enjoy and not a burden.

Christian education is needed, Rev. Fuson said, because while church affiliation in the United States is 53.3 per cent of the people, it is alarming that the nation also has its highest rate of crime. Christian education is the answer to fighting crime, he said.

Robert Jones, son of Sen. Glen Jones, was a guest of his father at last night's meeting.

A nominating committee was appointed by Dan Davis, club president, to nominate officers for the coming year. The committee is composed of John Schork, chairman, Fred Wunderlich, Glen Jones, Ronnie Doerge and Loy Barger.

Stevenson to Confer with Rayburn, Johnson in Texas; Speaks Tonight

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Adlai Stevenson makes a speech here tonight and, before he leaves Texas, is to confer with the two top Democrats in Congress.

All this activity, it was insisted today, will be "non-political." The speech will be at the University of Texas under student sponsorship. The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee and 1956 possibility will see House Speaker Sam Rayburn, who is coming to Austin from his Bonham home, at a dinner before the talk.

Stevenson will go from Austin late tonight to Stonewall, Tex., 66 miles to the west, to stay overnight and have breakfast with Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson at Johnson's Pedernales River ranch. The senior U. S. senator from Texas is recuperating from the heart attack he suffered in July.

But "anyone is wrong who attempts to read any high level political significance into the meeting" between Stevenson and Johnson, a spokesman for the senator said. "It simply isn't there. It is purely social."

Stevenson will not see Democratic Gov. Allan Shivers, whose antipathy for the former Illinois governor led him to renounce Stevenson and support President Eisenhower in 1952. Shivers is in Houston to address a banquet of oil well contractors.

The President's heart attack has heightened speculation about Shivers' position next year, since the governor only recently said at the National Governors' Conference in Chicago that he would support "practically anybody" for the Democratic presidential nomination next year except Stevenson. Stevenson had no reply at the time.

But it is privately believed that Shivers would not be so willing to risk defecting to the Republicans again in 1956 unless Mr. Eisenhower is the GOP candidate.

Stevenson's speech at the university will be on "America, the Economic Colossus." He is the first speaker in a student-sponsored "great issues" lecture series. He will be guest at an on-campus reception sponsored by the University of Texas Law School before leaving for Johnson's ranch and an overnight visit there.

Meat Packing Heir Louis Swift Kills Himself

NORCO, Calif. (UP)—Meat packing heir Louis F. Swift Jr., 60, dependent because he was suffering from a cancer, shot himself to death on his ranch here, sheriff's deputies reported today.

Swift was one of three sons of Louis F. Swift, son of Gustav F. Swift, founder of the meat packing fortune. The other two brothers died several years ago. The three sons were left a fortune estimated at more than 30 million dollars at the time of their father's death.

Swift lost his power of speech as the result of major surgery last January for throat cancer. His wife, Mrs. Libby Chase Swift, told deputies he had threatened suicide several times.

Swift, who retired eight years ago as an executive of the meat packing company, shot himself through the heart Tuesday with a revolver he apparently had hidden on his Arrow S. Ranch. The ranch in this fashionable Riverside County community is about 35 miles from Los Angeles.

Mrs. Swift told sheriff's investigator Howard Green that her husband got her to leave the ranch by asking that she go to a store to buy some soup. Just as she returned to the ranch she heard a shot.

Two servants said they saw Swift handling the gun and asked him to put it away.

Swift, who formerly managed the Swift company's Texas holdings and Denver, Colo., branches, was born May 22, 1895, in Lake Forest, Ill. He is survived by his widow and a son, Louis F. Swift III, who is a student at San Dimas, Calif., College.

Mrs. Charles Irwin Dies Suddenly While Visiting in Peoria

Mrs. Mable Scott Irwin, wife of Charles Irwin whose home is at Church and McKinley streets, died suddenly Sunday at the home of her sister in Peoria where she had been visiting.

The body will be returned tonight to Carbondale where she formerly resided.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 2 p. m. at the A. M. E. church in Carbondale. Burial will be in the Oakland cemetery.

Centralia Man Indicted For Slaying Wife

SALEM, Ill. (UP)—Eldon Marshall, 25, today faced a murder indictment in the shotgun slaying of his wife, Virginia, July 8.

Authorities said the 26-year-old woman was slain during an argument in the Marshall home at Centralia.

Yankees Trip Dodgers, 6-5, In First Game

Collins Hits Two Homers for New York;
Ford Winning Pitcher

NEW YORK (UP)—Whitey Ford pitched a winning game out of the past and Jean Joe Collins, the "step-child" of Manager Casey Stengel's platoon system, made himself a favorite son with two homers today as the Yankees took the opening game of the World Series from the Dodgers, 6-5.

Play by play of game follows:
Dodgers First: Mayor Robert Wagner of New York City threw out the first pitch and Berra caught it. Gilliam grounded out on the third pitch, Ford to Collins. Reese singled sharply to left. Snider struck out on three pitches. Campanella popped to Martin on the first pitch.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees First: Bauer beat out a bunt which Zimmer fielded but could not throw to first in time. McDougald was called out on strikes. Zimmer, on a brilliantly executed play, took Noren's grounders, tagged Bauer and threw to Hodges for a double play.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Second: Furillo sliced a home run into the lower right-field stands, the ball hitting the low fence just above Bauer's outstretched arm, and bouncing into the seats. Hodges grounded out, Martin to Collins. Robinson smashed a triple to left center, the ball bounding on to the red cinder path near the 457-foot mark. Zimmer

NEW YORK (UP)—A moment of silent prayer for the recovery of President Eisenhower was observed at Yankee Stadium today prior to the first game of the World Series between the Dodgers and Yankees.

blooped a single behind second base, scoring Robinson. Newcombe grounded out, Ford to Collins. Zimmer going to second. Gilliam walked on four pitches. Tom Morgan, a right-hander, began to warm up in the Yankee bullpen. Reese forced Gilliam, McDougald to Martin.

Two runs, three hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Second: Berra grounded out, Zimmer to Hodges. Collins walked. He ran down to first apparently not realizing umpire Summers had called the pitch a ball. Howard hit the second pitch, a home run into the lower left-field stands just on the fair side of the foul line, scoring Collins ahead of him, and tying the score 2-2. Martin flied to Furillo in short right. Robinson picked up Rizzuto's slow bouncer and made a rifle throw to Hodges to get the Yankees shortstop by a step.

Two runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Third: Snider hit a tremendous high ball for a home run into the third deck of the right-field grandstand, putting Brooklyn ahead again, 3-2. Snider set a new National League World Series record with the homer, his sixth. Campanella popped to McDougald. Furillo walked. Hodges pitched to Noren in short center. Robinson was called out on strikes.

One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Yankees Third: Ford walked. When the first two pitches to Bauer also were balls, rookie Don Bessent began to warm up for Brooklyn in the leftfield bullpen, stopping at second. Reese made a hurried throw on McDougald's slow bouncer and threw him out, the runners moving to second and third. Zimmer threw out Noren, Ford scoring to make it 3-3 and

Myrt Bows Out Of TV Quiz With $32,000

NEW YORK (UP)—Baseball expert Myrtle Power was richer today by $32,000, but she left a dozen unhappy television quiz show musicians standing with their piccolos.

The music makers, members of the studio band of TV's "The $64,000 Question," were all set to play when Myrtle bowed out to play "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" as a victory march Tuesday night for Myrt. The band had rehearsed it all day, figuring the 70-year-old contestant from Buford, Ga., would go for and win the top $64,000 prize on the CBS-TV game-away show.

But Myrt, who had run her winnings to $32,000 on previous program appearances by answering a series of baseball questions, decided to bow out.

Mrs. Power, housekeeper for a couple in Roslyn Heights, N. Y., said she would put most of her winnings in the bank.

"I'm gonna put it in the bank until it rots," she said. "I want to leave something to my children. I don't need nothing and I don't want nothing for myself. Except maybe to fix my house in Buford a little."

Another baseball expert on the show, Patrick Keough of St. Louis, ran his earnings to $8,000.

Keough, assistant to the plant manager of the Great Lakes Carbon Corp. in St. Louis, will get an opportunity to double his stake or quit next Tuesday.

Slain Hoodlum May Be Victim of Underworld War Over Ransom Money

CHICAGO (UP)—Hoodlum Michael De Stefano, whose bullet-riddled body was found stuffed in the trunk of his car, may have been the victim of an underworld war over circulation of the missing Greenleaf ransom bills, police sources said today.

An anonymous telephone call led police to the spot where De Stefano's car was parked in front of the McLaren Elementary School Tuesday. School children crowded about as police lifted the body of the ex-convict and bank robber from the trunk.

He had been shot five times about 12 to 15 hours before, police experts said. There was no blood on the body, clothes, or car, leading police to believe "the killers must have washed the body and put fresh clothing on it."

Pal Also Slain

Only 10 days earlier, De Stefano's close friend, Dominic Christiano, also had been killed in gang land fashion. It was reported that the FBI was seeking to link both men to the Greenleaf ransom bills which have suddenly begun turning up in the Midwest.

So far, 67 bills from the $300,000 in missing blood money have been found in various parts of the country. Most of them have been recovered in the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank—the 46th one Tuesday.

The money is part of $600,000 which Kansas City auto dealer Robert Greenleaf paid two years ago in a futile attempt to save the life of his kidnapped son, Bobby. Kidnaper-Killer Carl Hall insisted he had most of the money with him when he was captured, but only about $300,000 was recovered.

FBI agents have said they believe the underworld got hold of the missing money, possibly buying it at a cut rate, and has recently unloaded most or all of the missing bills through various channels.

Hope President Can Referee Arguments Over New Programs

WASHINGTON (UP)—Administration officials hoped today that President Eisenhower will be well enough by the end of the year to referee any administration arguments over new programs to be presented to Congress next January.

On the basis of past experience, experts said the Chief Executive's firm hand will be most needed in the final stages of fiscal 1957 budget planning, preparation of legislative programs and the State of the Union message.

The budget was given as an example.

Asian Aid Disputed
Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey, in a budget-balancing mood, has taken a dim view of heavy foreign aid expenditures.

Last year he was disputed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Foreign Aid Chief Harold E. Stassen, and to some extent by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson. The main disagreement was over a new Asian aid program.

Mrs. Eisenhower stepped in and settled things. Both sides gave a little and a compromise was reached.

Experts believe that Humphrey this year will be even more insistent on budget-balancing. The problem has not come up yet. Experts of all government departments are working overtime on their dollar requests for the 1957 fiscal year. But this work is on a preparatory level. It has not reached the point of requiring final decisions within the State, Defense or other departments.

This situation was acknowledged Tuesday by White House Press Secretary James J. Hagerty in Denver. He pointed out that government business, because of the time of year, is at a point where many matters that eventually will come before the President are in the preparation stage. Normally, he said, these matters would not come before the President for decision until possibly December.

This situation is particularly true because of the way the President operates the administration. He follows the Army principle of staff work. Recommendations start at the bottom and come to the top, for the most part, only after they are ready for decision.

Details Under Negotiation

Provisional President Eduardo Lonardi promised to render Peron harmless. Diplomatic sources said the delay in granting Peron a safe conduct pass stemmed from negotiations over the details of his residence in exile in neighboring Paraguay.

The informants said the Lonardi government is demanding that Peron be confined to the Paraguayan city in which he is interned. The demand was said to be based on fears that if Peron is permitted to move freely through Paraguay he could institute a plot to regain his lost power and prestige.

Fall Singing Convention

At Carrier Mills Sunday

The Saline county semi-annual fall singing convention will be held Sunday, Oct. 2, at 1:30 p. m. at the Carrier Mills Baptist church.

The following quartets are expected among others: The Galatia Good Shepherd Nursing Home quartet, King Messengers quartet and quartet from Carrier Mills, Joy Singers of Harco, a choir from Harrisburg and many other singing groups.

All singers and the public are invited to attend and participate.

Sen. Dirksen Hits Speculation; Hopes Ike Will Run in '56

CHICAGO (UP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said much of the political speculation about President Eisenhower's heart condition is "silly nonsense."

He told a Cook County Republican gathering Tuesday that he hopes the President will recover completely and will run for a second term in 1956.

"Duty is the shining, iridescent word the President learned at West Point," Dirksen said. "He knows, and will know, where his duty lies."

Hold Russia Responsible for Access to Berlin

NEW YORK (UP)—The Western Big Three warned the Soviet Union today that it is still responsible for free access to Berlin, despite Moscow's recent diplomatic arrangements with East Germany.

In a formal statement, the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France also declared that their countries do not recognize the East German regime as a sovereign state.

The joint statement issued by U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan and French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay referred to the Sept. 20 agreement between the Soviets and East Germany regarding frontiers and traffic matters.

In it, the Western foreign ministers emphasized that "these agreements cannot affect the obligations or responsibilities of the Soviet Union under agreements and arrangements between the three powers and the Soviet Union on the subjects of Germany and Berlin. The Soviet Union remains responsible for the carrying out of these objectives."

Affirm West's Position

The Big Three statement was issued as West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano joined Dulles, MacMillan and Pinay in conversations on German reunification.

Dulles, MacMillan and Pinay added that their "free governments do not recognize the East German regime nor the existence of a state in the Soviet Zone."

The statement followed recent appeals from West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for such a reaffirmation of the West's position.

The three Western ministers, in two secret meetings Tuesday, reached agreement on all major points of procedure for the Oct. 27 Geneva meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov.

Then, at a banquet given Tuesday night by Dulles, the proposals were presented to Molotov. He agreed to all of them, including an informal three-week time limit on the Geneva meeting.

Zhukov Sends Message

A personal "get well" greeting from the President's old friend and comrade at arms, Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov, was made public by the temporary White House Tuesday night. It was one of scores of messages received from officials of nations in every part of the globe.

Zhukov said he had been vacationing "far from Moscow" and "just now learned of your illness."

He voiced "deepest feelings of sorrow" and said "with all our hearts, my family and I wish you a speedy recovery and long life."

Zhukov recently sent Mr. Eisenhower a color photograph of himself with his family.

Mrs. Eisenhower asked the press to help her thank "all those who have prayed and are praying for the recovery of the President."

The temporary White House plans definitely on the President remaining in the hospital here for at least another three weeks. Another month of convalescence must follow that, even if everything goes well in his recovery.

C. W. Galeener, 70, Former Resident, Dies at Danville

C. W. Galeener, 70, former resident of Harrisburg and Eldorado who now made his home in Danville, died in the Danville hospital today at 5:30 a. m. He was an insurance adjuster by occupation.

Mr. Galeener was the son of S. C. and Anna Galeener of Eldorado and the brother of Mrs. Elmer (Maggie) Hamilton of Danville.

The body is at the Edmonds and Dickson funeral home in Danville and the funeral will be held some time Saturday.

Mrs. Eisenhower is Kept Under Close Watch by Doctors

DENVER (UP)—Mamie Eisenhower, who knows more about heart trouble than most persons since she has had it since she was a child, is kept under closest scrutiny by the physicians trying to restore her husband's health.

Mrs. Eisenhower's heart condition always has been slight. But a White House aide said today that physicians are watching her for any sign that the strain of the President's illness is too much.

Mrs. Eisenhower is now reported feeling "cheerful and well." But the aide also disclosed that she spends a good deal of her time in a room across from her husband's, "resting in bed."

Son Flies Home After Two Days With President

Doctors Guard Against Any Complications

DENVER (UP)—President Eisenhower had another good night's rest and his recovery from a heart attack continued so satisfactorily today that his son was able to fly home after nearly two days at the President's bedside.

The President's physicians reported in their latest bulletin, issued at 7 a. m. CST (8 a. m. EST) that Mr. Eisenhower spent his second consecutive night with a full amount of sleep.

"His progress continues to be satisfactory without complications," they said.

Mr. Eisenhower went to sleep at 8:30 p. m. and awakened at 6:30 a. m. today.

His son, Maj. John Eisenhower, felt sufficiently reassured by his father's condition to fly to Washington en route to Ft. Belvoir, Va., where he is stationed with the Army.

Condition is Satisfactory

He took off as scheduled from Lowry Air Force Base from Washington National Airport where his plane was scheduled to arrive late this afternoon.

To newsmen who asked about the President's condition, Maj. Eisenhower said:

"Well, I don't know about this technical business but the fact I'm going back this morning shows his condition is satisfactory to everyone who knows the business."

He said he had gone into the eighth floor tower suite at Fitzsimons Army hospital shortly before departing to call on his father.

Dr. Paul Dudley White, the famous Boston heart specialist called into the case as a consultant, said the crucial days are still ahead.

"The next nine days are the crucial ones, and we have to guard against complications but right now I'm very hopeful that our President will be all right and back on the job soon," White said.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who has remained at the hospital continuously since her husband was taken there Saturday afternoon after a "moderate coronary thrombosis" had three brief visits with her husband Tuesday. Their son, John, also saw his father briefly three times.

The President's mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud, saw the Chief Executive Tuesday night for the first time since he was stricken.

Disarmament And Atoms

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The United Nations disarmament conference meeting now in New York gives the great powers their first real chance to show whether the new international mood displayed at Geneva goes deeper than a mere improvement in the diplomatic courtesies.

The Geneva gathering of the Big Four heads of state did not solve any problems. It simply assigned them.

The two major dilemmas involve disarmament and the settlement of Cold War political issues, but top priority goes to the latter. These issues, however, will not be dealt with concretely until the October session of the Big Four foreign ministers.

This means, obviously, that no big result can emerge from the U. N. disarmament parleys. No one knows whether the great powers are of a mind to accept the drastic inspection controls which alone might assure effective armament. But certainly they are not likely to do so in the absence of a real political settlement.

The U. N. meeting is not therefore condemned to futility. Despite the fact that the U. N. commission has been laboring over disarmament for almost a decade,
there is still some vital exploratory work to be done.

The disarmament problem has changed with the passing years.
In the beginning, and for a long time thereafter, the United States insisted that rigid inspection and enforcement was the key to any acceptable plan.

Today American experts do not think the job can be accomplished by what it once regarded as effective inspection of each country's A and H-bomb output.

In the first place, perhaps enough time has elapsed since Russia got into nuclear production for the Communists to have stored critical amounts of nuclear weapons beyond the reach of the most avid inspectors.

In the second, some U. S. nuclear specialists are of the view that the processes in this field are now so complex that only a spy close to a nation's top authority could be sure what was happening to possibly decisive stores of nuclear energy.

The moment has come, evidently, to face this puzzle full on. For no disarmament plan will be worth its signposts if it does not go directly to this matter.

If and when the U. N. commission makes any headway we probably will have learned from the foreign ministers whether progress on the political front will be possible.

One may be forgiven for suspecting that it will be take a high degree of mutual trust on the political side to produce the kind of enduring healthy atmosphere in which genuinely workable disarmament might be achieved.

Boomerang

Apparently former President Truman has boundless faith in the campaign tactics which won him re-election in 1948. These were already outdated in 1952, and were no help to the new Democratic nominee, Adlai Stevenson. There is no sign they will prove any more suitable in the developing 1956 battle.

Nevertheless, Mr. Truman is sticking by them. He has delivered himself of some hell-for-leather remarks in his best, whistle-stop tradition, taking broad swipes at President Eisenhower and his administration.

What is perhaps saddest is the note of personal bitterness Mr.
Truman now allows to super-charge his political blasts. Accusations of "misrepresentation and demagoguery" against the President are extreme enough to suggest a real animosity.

Public attitudes toward the two men indicate these comments are more likely to hurt Mr. Truman than the man against whom they are aimed.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Politicians Concealed Both
FDR's And Ike's Health: Ike
Was Only One Who Was Frank
About His Health And Future
Candidates: He Has Had To Watch Health For Some Time.

WASHINGTON. — President
Eisenhower's heart attack, coming simultaneously with publication of Harry Truman's memoirs, points to two vital facts in the lives of our presidents:

1. Politicians don't want the public to know the truth about any president's health.

2. Medical checks should be given every presidential candidate in advance, and more specialized medical care should be given a president after he takes office.

It has long been known to intimates of the President and to newspapermen covering the White House that he had high blood pressure, just as it was known during the election campaign of 1944 to intimates of Franklin Roosevelt that the wear and tear of public office had made terrific inroads on his health.

But the politicians of both political parties have hushed up the real facts. Eisenhower himself is the only man who has been frank about it.

He has consistently and repeatedly told the politicians who wanted him to run again that they could not depend on one man. He has talked about the health erosion of public office. He has reminded them that if re-elected he would be the only president to reach the age of 70 while in office. He has come about as close as possible to telling that all was not well with him aside from making a blueprint.

He made a statement to me in 1952 that seemed to be flat and unequivocal, that he would serve one term only. And in various private conversations he has never deviated from this general plan. But despite this, the politicians have refused to take his word, have issued misleading statements about the President's health.

FIRST WARNING
Approximately one year ago at a stag dinner attended by Vice President Nixon, Attorney General Brownell, Chairman Len Hall, and other close political advisers, Ike first made it quite clear that they should begin building up new GOP leaders. The only promise they could wheedle out of him at that time was that he wouldn't announce his decision until the spring of 1956.

Nevertheless, Nixon and Chairman Hall both left that dinner to make repeated statements that the President was certain to run again, even though he had indicated directly to the contrary. No later than three weeks ago in Denver, Hall told newsmen how the GOP planned to defeat Sen.
Wayne Morse of Oregon because he "had criticized Ike."

"Suppose Ike doesn't run?" a newsmen asked.

"Then I commit suicide," replied the chairman of the Republican national committee who had previously heard from Ike's own lips that the Republican party should begin building other candidates.

On another occasion, the President not only told Sen. George Bender and other Ohio Republicans about the health erosion of the presidency but he specifically ordered his press secretary to have his statement to Bender made known to the press.

Senator Bender, like Chairman Hall, did not want to drop these discouraging words to the press.
So, as he left the White House, he made no comment about Ike's remarks on health. Whereupon he was put on the spot by the White House press secretary who asked him to repeat what the President had said.

FIRES HEALTH CONCEALED
This finds a semi-parallel in the Truman memoirs published last week in which he tells how, early in 1945, it was considered doubtful that Franklin Roosevelt could last much longer.

Yet in the summer of 1944 when Roosevelt was nominated while absent on a cruise to Alaska to reign his health, Democratic Bob Hannegan knew, as Hall knew about Ike, that FDR's health was not at all good. He also knew that it was a fraud on the American people to put his name on the ballot.

The real facts about Eisenhower's health have been known to intimates for some time, and published before his nomination by a few people. John Gunther, in an extremely friendly book, inspired in part to boost Ike for the nomination, touched briefly on his high blood pressure. Kay Summersby, in her book, "Eisenhower Was My Boss," tells how he had high blood pressure even during the war.

While the President's health, considering his age, has been reasonably good, his ruddy complexion is deceptive and he is not able to remain in the White House or at his desk for average periods of time. That is the reason for his golf, his week-end at Gettysburg, his trips to Augusta, and his occasional health problems which have been hushed up by those around him.

One of them, just before he was to leave Paris to begin his open and public bid for the Republican nomination, illustrates the importance of having specialists on hand to watch the president's health.
This particular incident almost unsettled the nomination.

Ike was taken sick about 10 days before Gen. Matthew Ridgway was scheduled to relieve him as commander of SHAPE in Paris. To get Eisenhower back on his feet, Dr. Snyder administered antibiotics.

However, General Eisenhower seemed to get worse. He developed pink eye, ran such a high fever that he talked of moving troops and calling general staff meetings.

Meanwhile a group of high Republicans was in Paris waiting to see him. They were told he was meeting in top-secret NATO sessions dealing with the security of Europe.

The days passed, however, and the time came for him to greet Ridgway, to say good-bye to the French. A public appearance became unescapable. Newspapermen asked that he hold a press conference. The French government asked if it could stage a farewell ceremony.

Finally an all-day session of Ike's closest advisers met to decide what should be done. It was attended by Gen. Al Gruenther, Gen. Anthony Drexel Biddle, Col.
Pete Carroll, and Arthur Vandenberg, Jr., son of the late senator from Michigan. During the meeting young Vandenberg flatly demanded that Eisenhower show up at a press conference. Otherwise, threatened Vandenberg, he would cable Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge to have the general's name withdrawn from nomination.

In the end, a French specialist was called in. He diagnosed Eisenhower's condition as an overdose of antibiotics. Within 48 hours he was much better, though terribly weak—so weak that his aides didn't know until just before General Ridgway arrived whether they could dress him for the occasion.

In the end, Ike got to the airport to see Ridgway, though wearing dark glasses. His car was driven into the privacy of a hangar immediately afterward to let Ike rest.

These are some of the things that have long been concealed from the public, just as the true state of Roosevelt's health was concealed during the fateful campaign of 1944. They are facts which point to the need of public health examination of all candidates for president whether Republican or Democrat. Too many of them, including the late Senator Taft and the late Wendell Wilkie, have been stricken.

NEW 1956 MERCURY—A more massive appearance, brought about by a new grille treatment and lowered height, is combined with a more powerful engine in the Mercury for 1956. A sweep side moulding adds to the graceful flowing lines, and accentuates the low, road-hugging characteristics of the car. Powered by a big new 312-cubic inch displacement Safety-Surge V-8 engine, the 1956 Mercury has superior acceleration and passing ability. New safety features including an improved door latch, an impact-absorbing steering wheel and safety belts are offered. Shown here is a Custom four-door sedan. The new models will be on display Thursday at Wiley Motor Company, local dealer.

New 1956 Mercury on Display Tomorrow; Feature Low Silhouette in Three Series

Wiley Motor company tomorrow will display the new 1956 Mercury automobiles. The new cars feature a low-silhouette in all three series, three new Safety-Surge engines and distinctive changes in exterior and in interior trim and fabrics.

A total of 13 models in the Montclair, Monterey and Custom series enable Mercury for 1956 to penetrate into all levels of the medium priced car market. Further emphasizing the wide choice offered prospective customers, Mercury for 1956 will have a total of 15 body colors and 60 two-tone combinations.

A new low-price two-door sedan called the "Medalist" is one of six cars in the expanded Mercury Custom series. The "Medalist" was designed specifically for those who want big car performance and feel, yet at the same time require low cost transportation.

A new six-passenger four-door station wagon is another newcomer to the Custom series, which also includes a new low-silhouette hardtop coupe, a four-door sedan, a two-door sedan and an eight-passenger four-door station wagon.

The appeal of Mercury's lowsilhouette styling is emphasized in the Monterey series by a new four-door sport sedan and a two-door hardtop coupe. The conventional Monterey four-door sedan too is lower than last year. Fourth car in the Monterey series is the versatile four-door eight passenger station wagon with simulated wood paneling.

The Montclair series, which made its debut last year in pioneering the low-silhouette, presents a four-door sport sedan, a striking two-door hardtop coupe and a glamorous convertible.

In offering a choice of three high compression, overhead valve, V-8 engines, Mercury has designed its power plants and its transmissions to complement each other.

Power when it is needed is assured at all driving ranges, by each of these Mercury engines, with compression ratio of 9.0 to 1, or 8.4 to 1, or 8.0 to 1. Available with Merc-O-Matic transmission only, the 9.0 to 1 engine develops 225 horsepower. The 8.0 to 1 engine is tailored to Mercury's standard and overdrive transmissions only. It develops 210 horsepower. The 8.4 to 1 engine available only with Merc-O-Matic transmission, develops 215 horsepower. Bore is 3.80 and stroke is 3.44 on all three engines.

For greater safety in case of accident, all Mercurys have a number of specially engineered safety devices to help protect driver and passengers from injury. These safety features were developed for Mercury as a result of extensive research and crash tests during the past four years.

Mercury's new impact-absorbing steering wheel, with the hub or steering column recessed six inches, is designed to cushion the force of an impact as the three spokes bend without breaking.

New motor-type safety door locks which withstand much greater impact before springing are standard on all 1956 Mercurys, affording additional protection in case of accident.

A new type of rear view mirror with vinyl coating to resist shattering is standard equipment.

Safety seat belts are available as optional equipment for up to six passengers including the driver. A

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—

Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.
In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.
Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"
The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.
This substance is now available in

Former Residents Observe 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Cash, formerly of Harrisburg, attended the 25th wedding anniversary Saturday night of Mr. and Mrs. Louie Korn, formerly of Brushy township, in Toledo, Ohio. Since moving to Toledo two years ago the two families have been close friends. They attend the Bethany Methodist church where Mr. and Mrs. Korn are Sunday school teachers. Mr. Korn is employed at the Toledo Trust bank and Mrs. Korn is a Red Cross worker at St. Charles hospital in Toledo.

The Lake Grange lodge was beautifully decorated with flowers sent for the occasion and a seven piece orchestra furnished the music throughout the evening. A solo, "We've Come a Long Way Together," was sung by Mrs. Korn's niece.

Many beautiful gifts were received from the crowd of over three hundred people. Refreshments of drinks, and a lovely wedding cake were served by the ladies of the Lake Grange lodge and the Bethany Methodist church.

Carol Ellen Patton, daughter of Mrs. Mildred Patton, 1005 Pace avenue, Mt. Vernon, and the late W. E. Patton, former residents of Harrisburg, is a patient at the Shriners' hospital for Crippled Children in St. Louis, Mo. Carol will undergo surgery for bone graft on her right hip and will be a patient at the hospital for the next four or five months. Anyone wishing to send a card, address it to Carol Ellen Patton, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, Kingshighway and Clayton Ave., Ward B, St. Louis, 10, Mo.

Nixon, Knowland Confer on Gov't Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, potential GOP presidential candidates, talked over government problems today.

Nixon, acting as head of the Eisenhower "team" during the President's illness, told newsmen before breakfasting with Knowland and that government operations "are going very smoothly."

He declined to say if he has signed any official papers on behalf of the President. He said, "I don't want to comment on what I have done or haven't done."

Knowland told newsmen he has not been in touch with Denver but has "talked to various people" at the White House since the President's attack.

Except for a foreign policy speech in North Carolina tonight, Knowland said he intends to remain here until Monday.

Nixon, who had been scheduled for a lengthy speech tour, said he will not decide until early next week on which ones will be cancelled, or substitute speakers provided.

Stratton Refuses Speculation on Effects to GOP

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton said Tuesday he is concerned only with President Eisenhower's health and would not comment on the political effects of the President's illness.

In response to "numerous" inquiries, the governor said in a statement:

"My concern at the moment is for President Eisenhower's health. To surmise at this time on any other assumption and resultant political considerations would certainly be presumptuous on my part. He is still the leader of the Republican Party and until he expresses his wishes I do not believe as governor of a large Republican state that I should offer any speculation. My hope and prayer is for his full recovery and continued excellent leadership of our country and party."

Soviet Jet Makes Forced Landing in Turkey

LONDON (AP) — A Soviet jet plane presumably on a reconnaissance mission made a forced landing today in Turkey, the Ankara radio reported.

The plane was reported down at Hamidiye village in the Pazar district of Rize province of northeast Turkey, bordering Russia.

"It is presumed that this airplane was on a mission of reconnaissance and observation," the broadcast monitored here said. It indicated the plane actually landed Tuesday.

Okinawa Buttons Up for Typhoon

TOKYO (AP) — Fringe winds of typhoon Louise smashed into the American base at Okinawa today and the island buttoned up for the full force of its 125-mile per hour winds.

Traveling at its present nine miles per hour, the erratic storm could rake Okinawa and then slam its full fury on Kyushu, Japan's southernmost main island.

American troops on Okinawa were getting ready but Air Force weathermen refused to predict the course of the weaving typhoon, worst Pacific storm of the year.

Sen. Humphrey In Demo Race for Vice Presidency

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey indicated today he is a candidate for the vice presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket in 1956.

The Minnesota Democrat said he would consider it a "signal honor" if his party nominated him for the No. 2 spot on its 1956 ticket. He said there had been "no suggestion or suspicion" that he was a presidential candidate but he believed he could contribute to the office of vice president.

Humphrey told a Trojan Democratic club meeting on the University of Southern California campus Tuesday that he considered Adlai Stevenson to be the leading candidate now for the Democratic presidential nomination next year. He listed Gov. Averell Harriman of New York as a strong candidate with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee gaining support.

Humphrey said he was praying for President Eisenhower's recovery from a heart attack but will "vigorously oppose him" if he is a candidate for re-election.

Galatia Wins 3-Team Cross Country Meet

Galatia's cross country runners won a three-way meet Tuesday afternoon, defeating teams from Christopher and Thompsonville.

Paced by Ken Cockrum, who topped individual honors by covering the two-mile course in 10:34, Galatia scored 28 points. Christopher was second with 35 and Thompsonville placed third.

In cross country the team with the lowest point total wins, as points are based on the order of individual finishes, first place scoring one point and so on to the last finisher.

Durocher to Assume Duties in Talent Relations for NBC

NEW YORK — Leo Durocher, who gave up managing the New York Giants to take a job as television executive, will leave for California after the World Series to assume his new duties in the field of talent relations with the National Broadcasting Co.

Ridgway Loses to Albion in State Grade School Tourney

Ridgway was eliminated from the state grade school softball tournament Tuesday night, dropping a 9-0 decision to Albion, winner of the regional meet staged at Fairfield.

Albion's fastball hurler held Ridgway under control all the way, allowing but two hits and retiring 16 via the strikeout route.

Ridgway entered the state meet by taking honors in the regional tourney held at Harrisburg last week.

In the other game played last night under the lights at Du Quoin the host school—Du Quoin—won from Christopher 9-2.

In 1773, the Rev. Dr. Stephen Hales, an Englishman, discovered that blood has a pressure, and was first to measure it.

Rochester, Minneapolis Play Tonight for Little World Series Title

MINNEAPOLIS — Minneapolis and Rochester battle for the Little World Series championship tonight.

It was a toss up because the big bat of the Millers' George Wilson is humming again.

Wilson smacked two homers Tuesday night, one in the 10th inning, to square the series at three games each. Minneapolis won, 4-3.

Eliot Stresses Pass Defense For Home Opener

CHAMPAIGN, Ill.—Illinois' pass defense will be thoroughly overhauled for its home opener against Iowa State, Coach Ray Eliot said today as he launched preparations for the Cyclones' visit to Memorial Stadium Saturday.

"Looks as if we need lots of work in that department," Eliot observed, "but I feel with the speed our backs have that this is a problem which can be solved."

Intimation was that Eliot was more than a little satisfied with progress of his team and with a 20-13 victory over California the season's opener.

"Sure, we made a lot of mistakes in that ball game. I expected that we would because this team is inexperienced. However, we can't be discouraged by our net gain of 433 yards against a good ball club, nor by defense which held without a first down by rushing and only 62 yards on the ground."

Lindbeck Stars

Some lineup changes may be in the offing for Illinois by Saturday although Eliot had not made any definite decisions pending further review of game movies. It's logical to assume after the Cal contest that both Em Lindbeck, senior quarterback from Kewanee, and Ray Nitschke, sophomore fullback from Chicago (Proviso), are in contention for starting roles.

Lindbeck engineered all three of Illinois' successful touchdowns drives, picked up 20 yards rushing, and threw six passes completing two, one of which went for a score. Junior Hiles Stout hit four of seven throws for 54 yards, but failed to show the ball-handling skill with which Lindbeck baffled Cal defenders.

Nitschke, a quarterback at start of fall drills, showed fine progress in his new role as a fullback. He backed the line well on defense and sparked the Illini attack with 47 yards in 11 carries, an average of 4.7 per try.

Dan Wile, sophomore from Salem, and only other fullback employed by Eliot, ran for 27 yards on nine tries, but made a costly fumble which led to California's second touchdown.

Harry Jefferson, whose speed and change of pace gave California trouble all day, remains a fixture at left halfback. The little junior from White Plains, N. Y., picked up 127 yards by rushing, more than twice Cal's total ground offense.

Line Aggressive

Abe Woodson, junior from Chicago (Austin), averaged 10.7 yards per carry, but will continue to share right halfback duties with Mickey Bates, senior from Kewanee, who gained 32 yards rushing and added 34 on two pass receptions.

Illinois' line played aggressively and showed better speed and considerably more depth than it had in 1954. Rod Hanson, sophomore end from Harvey, John Gremer, junior tackle from Bloomington, Gary Francis, junior end from Bloomington, Bob Baetto, junior guard from Streator, and Rudy Siegert, senior tackle from Pana, were standouts up front.

Besides concentrating on pass defense in drills this week, Eliot will give plenty of attention to polishing the Illini attack. "We blew too many good scoring opportunities on missed signals and failures to carry out assignments," Eliot observed.

Saturday's contest will begin at 1:30 p. m. (Central Daylight Time) with a crowd of approximately 35,000 expected for the home opener.

James Bros. Team Entertained with Picnic at Sahara 7

Members of the James Bros. baseball team in the Kitty league of the Kiwanis summer baseball program were entertained with a picnic at Sahara 7 picnic grounds recently.

The team won 17 games in 18 starts during the past season, taking the championship of the Kitty league and also won the league all-star games.

This was the second party for the team by James Bros., as the group also was entertained following the first half of the season's schedule.

The team was first organized in 1954 and this was the second year for the boys to play together under the same manager, Bill Boyett. At the picnic Mr. Boyett was presented with a large photograph of the team, which each player had autographed.

Entertained at the picnic were Steve James, Johnny Utter, Carl Shelton, Dale Robson, Billy Abney, Darrell Cavender, Pick Boyett, Mike Kihlmire, Dennis James, Gregg James, Mike Klien, John Meler, Donnie Utter, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boyett and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Utter and family and Mr. and Mrs. Harold James and family.

Only one motor road crosses the 180th meridian of longitude, the International Date Line. It lies on Taveuni Island, in the Fijis.

Much Interest This Week on Bull Dog-Eagle, Herrin-Centralia Tilts

Two undefeated teams in South Seven play meet this week and Harrisburg goes out of the conference to meet the big county rival, Eldorado.

The important game in the conference is at Herrin, where the Tigers will entertain Centralia. The Herrin crew walloped what was supposed to be a strong Mt. Vernon team last Friday after taking on an easy opener. Centralia, which lost its first game to Flora after 11 players, seven of them first stringers were benched because of disciplinary reasons, came back to beat Benton, 12 to 0, last week.

The other conference game will be between two beaten outfits, Marion, conquered by Harrisburg, and Benton.

All Games Friday Night

Two other South Seven teams are host to non-conference teams. Effingham will be at West Frankfort and Albion will journey to meet Mt. Vernon.

All games this week-end are on Friday night.

From a look at the schedule, most of the interest will be on the Harrisburg-Eldorado and the Herrin-Centralia tilts. The first contest brings together the two teams that are participating in the oldest rivalry in southern Illinois.

And this year both outfits are ranked with the strongest in Egypt. Both have won their two opening tilts and both are ready for the other. Harrisburg has a fine defensive line, a good offensive line and backs who run well. Tony Beal, strong fullback, is the key man in the offensive setup and his linebacking ranks with the best. He also is a good passer. To date, Joe Dorris, Harrisburg end, has been doing a miraculous job in the pass-catching department.

Odds About Even

Eldorado has a speedy, clever backfield engineered by Ronnie Clark, one of the best quarterbacks. He has good runners and a ponderous fullback Lindell Lovellette, which will be played on the Eldorado field.

Either Herrin or Centralia will fall from the undefeated ranks in South Seven play this Friday night, and from the way the Herrin Tigers charged against the bigger Mt. Vernon for last week, when Herrin won 41-6, most fans favor the Williamson county boys.

Carrier Mills To Begin Cage Practice Oct. 3

Coach Claude Shelton will start basketball practice at Carrier Mills Monday, Oct. 3. First date for cage practice under LHS rules is Oct. 1, which is Saturday this year and most schools will probably wait until the Monday date to get started.

Carrier Mills' schedule shows one Thursday game—Nov. 10—however it is just before a school holiday and will give athletic followers a chance to see a basketball game and follow up the next day with football as most high schools in the area play a grid game on Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

The Carrier Mills schedule opens Friday, Nov. 4, against Rosiclare in the annual homecoming game.

The complete schedule:
Nov. 4—Rosiclare.
Nov. 10—Mound City.
Nov. 18—Mt. Vernon.
Nov. 19—Shawneetown.
Nov. 22—Cave-in-Rock.
Dec. 2—Johnston City.
Dec. 3—Carterville.
Dec. 10—Harrisburg.
Dec. 17—Galatia.
Dec. 27-30—Egyptian Holiday tournament at Mt. Vernon.
Jan. 3—Cave-in-Rock.
Jan. 7—McLeansboro.
Jan. 14—Carbondale Attacks.
Jan. 20—Sesser.
Jan. 21—Norris City.
Jan. 27-28—Saline County tournament at Harrisburg.
Feb. 4—Metropolis.
Feb. 10—McLeansboro.
Feb. 11—Galatia.
Feb. 17—Norris City.
Feb. 24—Rosiclare.
Feb. 25—Eldorado.

Picking the Grid Winners IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — Fraley's Folies and the weekend football "winners"—wobbling between punts and bunts as the World Series gets under way.

Game of the Week

Maryland over Baylor—Maryland may have a slight leadout after that victory over UCLA and the Baylor Bears are rough. Yet the torrid Terps should have enough to crunch through.

The East
Army over Penn State—Here's advice from Brooklyn's Red Cross. Yale over Brown—Avoid over-optimism.

Cornell over Colgate—Check that racing pulse.

Princeton over Columbia — There's always another pitcher.

Also: Harvard over Massachusetts, Boston U. over Connecticut, Bucknell over Gettysburg, Holy Cross over Dartmouth, Delaware over Lehigh and Temple over Scranton.

The Midwest

Michigan over Michigan State—Remain seated.

Iowa over Wisconsin—Jumping is bad.

Purdue over Minnesota—You can get badly bruised.

Notre Dame over Indiana—Even kilt, if you jump from high up.

Also: Oklahoma over Pitt, Missouri over Utah, Kansas State over Nebraska, Illinois over Iowa State, Marquette over Tulsa, Wichita over Detroit and Colorado over Kansas.

The South

Georgia Tech over SMU—Don't yell too hard.

Navy over South Carolina—You can get laryngitis.

Vanderbilt over Alabama — Or a broken jaw.

Georgia over Clemson—Depending on at whom you yell.

Also: North Carolina over North Carolina State, Miami over Florida State, Duke over Tennessee, Florida over Auburn, Tulane over Northwestern, Kentucky over Villanova, Mississippi over North Texas State, Mississippi State over Memphis State, Virginia over George Washington, Richmond over VMI, West Virginia over Wake Forest and VPI over William and Mary.

The West

Ohio State over Stanford—Don't eat between innings.

California over Penn—Might bite your tongue.

Washington over Oregon — Or choke.

UCLA over Washington State—Or have your mouth full when you really wanta yell.

The Southwest

TCU over Arkansas—Don't get in fights.

Rice over LSU—Give 'em a cool "Oh yeah."

Texas Aggies over Houston — Make sure he's a little guy.

Texas Tech over Oklahoma Aggies — Then whale away and watch those counterpunches.

Yankees Trip Dodgers, 6-5, in First Game

Bauer moving to third. Newcombe tossed out Berra.

One run, one hit, no errors, one left.

Dodgers Fourth: Zimmer walked on a low pitch. Newcombe, trying to sacrifice, forced Zimmer, Ford to Rizzuto who had to leap high to keep the throw from going into centerfield. Gilliam walked on five pitches. Reese hit into a double play, Martin to Rizzuto to Collins.

No runs, no hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Fourth: Collins hit Newcombe's second pitch for a line drive home run into the lower rightfield stands, putting the Yankees ahead for the first time, 4-3. Howard was called out on strikes on three pitches. Martin lined a single to left. On a pitchout, Campanella caught Martin attempting to steal second. Reese putting the tag on him. Rizzuto was called out on strikes.

One run, two hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Fifth: Snider popped out to Rizzuto. Rizzuto threw out Campanella. Furillo hit a ground single to center. Hodges singled to left center. Furillo going to third. Robinson flied to Noren.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

Yankees Fifth: Ford, after fouling off two pitches, struck out with the count two and two. Bauer flied to Gilliam. Reese threw out McDougald.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Sixth: Zimmer worked the count to three and two, then flied to Noren in short left center. Martin roved far over toward second base to take Newcombe's grounder and toss him out with an off-balance throw. Gilliam fouled to Berra.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Sixth: Noren grounded out, Hodges unassisted. Berra dropped a pop single into short right. Collins hit his second home run of the game, this one a towering drive into the rightfield bleachers, scoring Berra ahead of him and putting the Yankees in front 6-3. Howard grounded out. Reese to Hodges. Martin tripped over Gilliam's head in deep left, going into third standing up. That was all for Newcombe and rookie right-hander Bessent replaced him. Ed die Robinson batted for Rizzuto.

Martin was out trying to steal home, Campanella putting the tag on him as he slid in. Martin grabbed at Campanella but there was no incident.

Two runs, three hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Seventh: Coleman replaced Rizzuto at shortstop for the Yankees. Reese flied deep to Bauer. Collins made a fine stop of Snider's hard shot and threw him out. Ford covering first. Campanella flied to Bauer in short right.

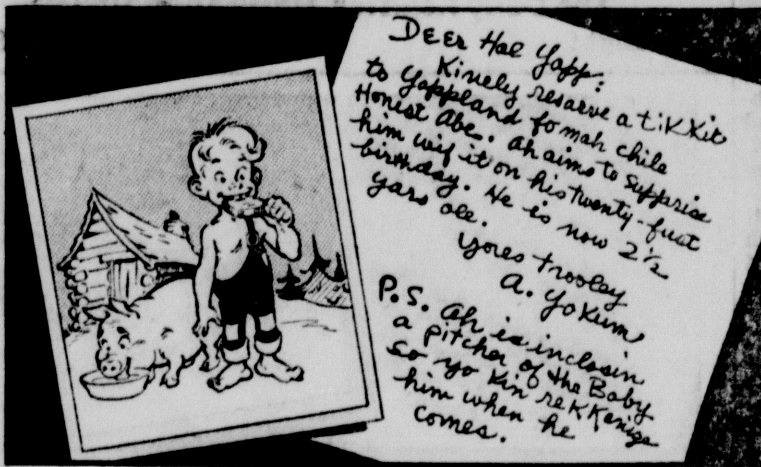

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees Seventh: Robinson tossed out Coleman. Ford flied to Snider. Reese tossed out Bauer.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Dodgers Eighth: Furillo lined a single to left center for his third hit and a perfect day at bat. He

Hurricane Hits Yucatan Peninsula

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane Janet sliced across the Yucatan peninsula of Mexico today and thousands fled the wrath of its howling winds and flooding rain.

Families living on the coastal area of the Bay of Campeche, a body of water between Yucatan and the Mexican mainland, were hastily evacuated.

No details of deaths or injuries were received from the zone smashed by Janet, but it was the same general area struck just 12 days ago by another tropical howler that killed 300 on its long haul from the Atlantic, including 11 in Mexico.

A Caribbean search continued meanwhile for a hurricane hunter plane missing for two days with a Navy crew of nine and two newspapermen.

Early Political Opponent Supported By FDR, Truman Says In Memoirs

WASHINGTON 17—Ex-President Truman in the second installment of his memoirs today sought to correct "misinformation" about his early political life, including the idea that he was the product of a corrupt Missouri machine.

Unfolding for Life Magazine the story of his rocky road to the White House, the former Chief Executive told of an obstacle thrown in his already bumpy political path in 1940 by the late President Roosevelt. Mr. Truman said F.D.R. "encouraged" one of his chief political foes in Missouri when the Missouri senator was trying to win Democratic renomination.

Mr. Truman recited the story without recrimination and told how he successfully overcame the difficulty posed by Mr. Roosevelt by campaigning in behalf of New Deal policies. Later, in 1944, he and F.D.R. were running mates.

The former President acknowledged that the Kansas City Pendergast machine got him his start in politics, but said he was an independent agent thereafter. He also acknowledged that the conviction of the late "Boss Tom" Pendergast was a political liability but said it did not bother him personally because he felt he possessed an "unblemished record."

Details of Childhood
The second installment of the Truman memoirs supplied lengthy details of his childhood, his World War I service and his subsequent failure in the haberdashery business, a failure which he attributed to economic conditions brought on by the Harding administration.

Mr. Truman said F.D.R.'s attempt to curb his political future came early in 1940 when he decided to seek a second term in the Senate.

He said Mr. Roosevelt offered "in a round-about way" to put him on the Interstate Commerce Commission, but he turned it down and said he would fight for renomination even if he received only one vote.

"The President really was encouraging Lloyd C. Stark, my opponent," said Mr. Truman who won the election.

When Mr. Truman first entered the Senate in 1935, he was nearly 51, but he said he felt "as timid as a country boy arriving on the campus of a great university for his first year."

His first term in the Senate gave him the happiest days of his life.

Distrusted Two Senators
He found most of his Senate colleagues to be "some of the finest men I have ever known." Without naming them, he said there were "only two senators with whom I would rather not associate and whose word I did not trust."

Although beset by bad eyesight at an early age, knowing that he could not go to college because his father could not afford it, Mr. Truman remembered a decidedly happy boyhood.

From the time he entered grade school, he worked hard to learn and to please his teachers. By the time he was 14 he had read "all the books" in the Independence Library and gone through the Bible three times.

Most of Mr. Truman's experiences as a World War I artillery captain were told previously but there were numerous new personal reminiscences, one particularly revealing.

The ex-President told how on his first leave in France after the armistice, while comrades were whooping it up in the joy spots of Paris, he spent "three happy days" going to the opera.

He went to the Folies Bergere, too, but found it to be "a disgusting performance."

Kills Fiancee in Argument Over Her Vacation Trip

ST. LOUIS 17—A 38-year-old St. Louis man has admitted shooting his fiancee to death during an argument over a vacation trip she took to New Orleans, police said today.

Mrs. Jean Hayes, 40-year-old divorcee, died Tuesday night of the single bullet which Kenneth D. Riley said he fired at her in her apartment.

Police said the couple had been keeping company for two years and planned to be married. Both were employed in the laboratories of the Procter and Gamble Manufacturing Co. plant here.

Riley is divorced and the father of a 13-year-old son.

Mrs. Hayes' daughter, Miss Jean Louise Hayes, 21, was a witness of the shooting.

She told police that Riley became angry during dinner at the Hayes' apartment when her mother told of the vacation trip to New Orleans she had insisted on taking prior to her marriage to Riley.

Later, when Mrs. Hayes received a long distance telephone call from a Dallas man she met on the trip, Riley went home and returned with a .38 caliber revolver, the daughter said.

The quarrel continued and Miss Hayes stepped between the pair in a vain attempt to stop it. Riley fired and Mrs. Hayes was pronounced dead on arrival at Homer G. Phillips hospital.

Soviets, Czechs Offer to Sell Arms to Egypt

WASHINGTON 17—Diplomats feared today that Russian and Czech offers to sell arms to Egypt are aimed at stirring up new trouble in the strife-ridden Middle East.

Diplomats said the offer thus seems to expose as two-faced the Soviet's post-Geneva policy of seeking to relax world tensions.

The United States and Britain have set out to correct the impression that the United States plans to supply weapons to Egypt to forestall the Communist offers.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Harold MacMillan issued a joint statement in New York that both governments want "to avoid any arms race which inevitably would increase tension in that area."

The impression that the United States itself would supply weapons for Egypt started over the weekend with a report the United States had offered arms to Egypt. Jerusalem dispatches quoting Israeli sources made it evident Israel believed the reports and that the United States had made such an offer through fears Egypt might be drawn into the Soviet orbit.

The British Foreign Office said Tuesday the Egyptian government had accepted a Soviet offer to sell arms. Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser said in a speech Tuesday night Czechoslovakia had agreed to supply arms in return for cotton and rice, but he did not clarify whether Russia would supply arms.

There also were reports other Arab nations were willing to buy arms from the Soviet Union.

Madrid, capital of Spain, lies almost at the exact geographical center of that country.

Cairo Presbyterian Training Schools Scheduled Oct. 4 and 6

The Cairo Presbyterian will conduct district fall training schools for Presbyterian women in two churches the first week in October. Women from the West district of the Presbyterian will meet at Heron Tuesday, Oct. 4, and the East district at Marion, Thursday, Oct. 6.

The meetings will convene at 9:30 a. m. The worship service will be conducted by Mrs. Austin Heuer, Eldorado. Simultaneous classes in all departments of Presbyterian women's organizations are to be held. Two new classes added this year will include "basic plans for all Presbyterian women" and "instructions for circle chairmen."

New literature for 1956 which is the basis for the training classes will be put on sale at 9:15 and those desiring to purchase new hand books, program booklets, and mission study, may secure them before the meetings from Mrs. Ed Hon, Presbyterian Literature secretary from Ridgway.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy, first vice president of Cairo Presbyterian, will preside over the morning sessions and Mrs. J. M. Burley, Presbyterian president, will preside through the afternoon meetings. Class leaders from Harrisburg will be Mrs. G. C. Benson, Mrs. Clarence Bosket, Mrs. Paul Halberstehen and Mrs. Burley.

The training schools are especially planned for officers of P. W. O. who will serve during 1956, and the class for all Presbyterian women will help them cooperate with their officers in a much better way.

Harrisburg Presbyterian women will attend the East district meeting at Marion Thursday, Oct. 6, but members may attend Oct. 4 at Heron for convenience.

Transportation will be arranged with circle chairmen or by calling Mrs. LeRoy Reese, guild president. Each woman is to take her own "sack lunch" and the drinks will be served by the hostesses.

These meetings promise to be of great interest and all Presbyterian women are invited to attend.

SIU Faculty Pianist to Give Concert Oct. 6

Steven Barwick

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Concert pianist Steven Barwick, a new addition to the Southern Illinois University music department staff, will be introduced to area music lovers in a Carbondale recital Oct. 6 at Shryock Auditorium.

Strongly influenced by Claudio Arrau, a former teacher and now close adviser, Barwick has been acclaimed by eastern critics who cited his "deft virtuosity and singular polish," and "great musical integrity."

His program, reflecting a wide range of style, includes "Variations on 'Salve To Domine'" by Mozart; "Sonata Op. 10, No. 2," by Beethoven; "Sonata Op. 22," by Schumann; "Three Fantasies," by William Bergsma; "Charo Turturdo," by Guarnieri; "Oiseaux Tristes," by Ravel; "Toccata," by Poulenc; "Chant Polonais," by Chopin (Liszt); and Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11."

Barwick has been granted a leave of absence for a European concert tour next spring.

Harvester Sells Evansville Plant to Whirlpool-Seeger

CHICAGO — International Harvester Co. announced today it has sold its refrigeration division plant and property at Evansville, Ind., to Whirlpool-Seeger Corp.

Harvester officials said the sale includes the plant site of about 70 acres, a factory of about 962,000 square feet of floor space, building equipment, machinery, furniture, tooling and miscellaneous equipment.

John L. McCaffrey, Harvester president, said the farm equipment company was faced with the choice of spending large sums on broadening its refrigeration and air conditioning line or discontinuing it.

The sale price was not disclosed. John S. Holl, vice president of the Seeger Division, said his company could make no immediate statement of its detailed plans, but he estimated that production at the Evansville plant would not begin before the fall of 1956.

Census Report Shows Why Schools Crowded

WASHINGTON — A Census Bureau report showed clearly today why so many schools are overcrowded.

The bureau said the number of American children in the 5 to 13 year-old bracket has increased 26.8 per cent in the last five years—by far the fastest growth of any segment of the population.

It estimated that on July 1 there were 28,096,000 youngsters in this age group. That is a rise of about 6,000,000 over mid-1950.

showed a 9.5 per cent increase in the same five years, from 8,435,000 to 9,238,000.

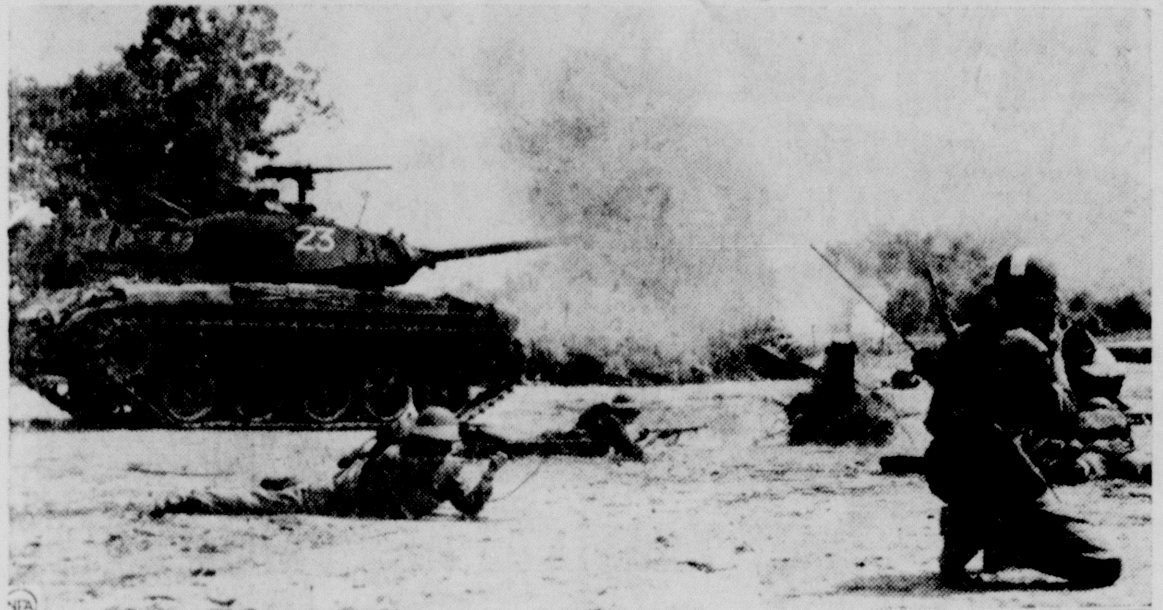

But the 18-24 age group—reflecting the low birth rate during the depression years of the early 1930s—actually contained about 1,000,000 fewer persons in 1955 than the same bracket covered five years ago, when the overall national population was smaller.

Next to school age children, the largest jump was in the over-65 age bracket. The number of persons past the so-called retirement age of 65 increased 15.9 per cent during the five year period, and now totals about 14,128,000.

The total U. S. population on July 1, was estimated at 165,248,000, an increase of 14,116,000 over mid-1950.

Preview of Operation Sage Brush: Stage Set for Biggest Peace Time Mock War

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — They're putting the finishing touches on the biggest, most significant Army-Air Force maneuver ever attempted in the peace time history of the U. S.

Called Exercise Sage Brush, it will involve 140,000 troops, 900 aircraft, ground operations covering 7,000,000 acres of Louisiana and air activity over seven southern states. Beginning early in November, it will last 45 days.

Basically, it is an effort to train troops and commanders in the newest concepts of atomic warfare, how to use such new weapons as guided missiles and how to defend against radiological, biological and chemical weapons.

Almost as important as the opportunity it will give for large-scale field testing of hundreds of new items including communications equipment, helmets, guns, tanks and other weapons.

Never before in history has science produced such changes in warfare so rapidly, as those which have taken place during the past few years. The whole range of nuclear weapons, plus guided missiles, top the list of weapons which have revolutionized the character of warfare.

The maneuver will attempt to catch up with this revolution.

This fantastic war game will start with the assumption that an enemy has invaded the U. S. from the Gulf of Mexico. A line will be drawn and commanders of the opposed friendly and aggressive forces will be given a free hand and free use of the whole array of new weapons in any way they see fit to win their objectives.

Of course, it will be a kind of paper war, with umpires and referees swarming all over the vast maneuver area.

But actual field conditions will exist and there will be such live action as the dropping of paratroopers.

One of the most important goals is to test the smaller, more mobile combat unit, designed to give maximum dispersion of ground troops as a defense against atomic attack. The whole division structure has been rejiggered to ward creating smaller, more self-contained units.

This concept calls for more communications equipment, such as improved radio, and TV cameras to report conditions of the battle field to rear area commanders.

The Army has many new devices in this category and will give them all a thorough testing during Sage Brush.

At the start of World War II, for example, the division headquarters had three radios, and several more in lower units. The average division in Sage Brush will have 1,700 radio sets, all vastly improved over the ones even used as late as the Korean fighting.

The average piece of World War II communications equipment had a total of 16 message channels, compared to the newest equipment which has 104. The new "handy-talkie" for the infantry man is a far better instrument than the old "walky-talkie," using longer-life batteries, having greater ranges and able to contact artillery and armored units which might be far away.

Also in Sage Brush a new "grid" concept of communications will be tested, as an advance over the former front-to-rear system. It consists of communications from flank to flank, to air units overhead, as well as to front and rear.

Increasing ground-air cooperation between the Army and Air Force will be a major effort of the maneuver. And to make sure that a new level of coordination between air and ground units is achieved an Air Force officer has been put in charge of Sage Brush.

He is Gen. O. P. Weyland, Commander of the Tactical Air Command.

Actually, the Air Force will have only 500 planes in action for the big game. There will be included everything from the latest supersonic fighters to the new troop carrier aircraft.

The remaining 400 planes which will be used will be aircraft attached to the Army, including light observation planes and helicopters. This figure shows the extent to which the Army has taken to the air recently.

No troops from the NATO countries in Europe will participate. But problems will be cranked into the maneuver simulating the working with foreign troops under combat conditions.

It is expected that the maneuver will be followed by a complete revamping of the divisional structure after all the reports are in and have been analyzed.

State to Step Up Prosecution of Egg Law Violations

SPRINGFIELD — The State Department of Agriculture today planned to step up prosecution on violations of the state egg law.

Davis Foreman, superintendent of the division of markets, said 1,400 inspections since Aug. 1 have turned up a high percentage of violations, including improper labeling, advertising and invoicing and lack of candling certificates.

Foreman said the biggest problem is ignorance of candling methods and requirements at the point of first purchase from the producer.

The law requires all eggs bought from farmers be candled at the first purchase and all eggs sold at retail be labeled either by grade and size or as "ungraded."

Who Rides With Wyatt

by Will Henry

Illustrated by M.E.A. Copyright 1954, 1955 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Random House.

XXXI

Wyatt took the wire, read it twice through to make sure, handed it without comment to Virg, as Morg moved in to read over his wounded brother's shoulder.

FREMONT RESIGNED. J. J. GOSPER ACTING GOVERNOR. HAVE ADVISED HIM YOU BE GIVEN SPECIAL AUTHORITY COCHISE COUNTY. C. P. DAKE, U. S. MARSHAL. It never was shown, that during his term as governor of Arizona Territory General Fremont was any sort of cohorts with the crooked bunch in Prescott or, through them, with Behan's gang in Tombstone. But the old soldier never was quite up to controlling the political shenanigans which went on down in Cochise County while he was in office.

Through early February Wyatt, with Morg and Doc Holliday as special federal deputies backing him, made arrests among the Sulphur Springs crowd right and left; arrests which, as always before, fell apart in Behan's locally controlled courts.

But to frustrate Wyatt's arrests was not enough for Johnny Behan with the cards coming his way like they were now. When no judge in Tombstone would issue warrants for the Earps on account of their legal status as federal officers, he quickly enough found a justice of the peace in Contention City who would—did. Trial was set for Feb. 14. The warrants were made out for Wyatt, Virgil and Morgan Earp, and Doc Holliday. The charge was the tired old one of having murdered Billy Clanton and Frank and Tom McLowry.

It was five minutes of 10 the morning of the 14th when Wyatt and Morg and Doc walked into the Contention City courtroom. Each was wearing his federal marshal's star pinned full out in the open, and each was wearing something else, likewise in the full open—a well-oiled brace of 44s.

It was just two minutes before 10 when Col. William Herring, heading the Tombstone Citizen's Safety Committee in Clum's absence, marched into his Honor's hearing room with the Citizen's Committee vigilantes behind him.

"We're here," he announced in a loud, steady voice, "for justice or a fight, and ready for either. You haven't any more jurisdiction over this case than a jack rabbit. If there's any hearing, it'll be in Tombstone. Have I made myself clear?"

In the little stillness that followed, there was no doubt he had. Behan never opened his mouth and the Contention justice only opened his far enough and fast enough to agree in complete legal detail with Colonel Herring.

It was straight-up 10 o'clock when Wyatt and Morg and Doc stalked out past Johnny Behan and boarded their horses.

One month later, the night of March 18, it happened. There would be longer ways to tell it but none better than the way George W. Parsons put it down in his diary.

I heard the shots, two in number. Poor Morgan Earp was shot through by an unknown party. Probably two or three in number in Campbell & Hatch's while playing pool with Hatch. Wyatt was there, sitting along the wall watching the game. The shots came from the ground window leading into alley running to Fremont Street. The second shot was fired apparently at Wyatt Earp. Murderers got away, of course, but it was and is quite evident who committed the deed. The man was Frank Stilwell in all probability. Morg lived about 10 minutes after being shot, and died without a murmur.

In addition to the testimony of George Parsons, and that of pool hall owner Hatch and the other eye witnesses, the coroner's jury produced a surprise witness—Pete Spence's wife. This was a very civic-minded lady. It would only be small to point out that her sudden interest in impartial justice was maybe brought on by the fact Pete had busted her jaw in a family argument just ahead of doing Morg in. Point was, she testified under oath that the killers were Pete, Frank Stilwell, an Indian called Charlie, another Indian she didn't know, and a John Doe white man she'd never seen before. She thought there were two, three others in on the action but they hadn't been to her house with Stilwell and the others. She also stated that Pete had told her Curly Bill was running the show and that Ringo was in town along with Curly.

Wyatt let it be known openly throughout Tombstone that he was going after the killers and any of their accomplices their trails might lead him to. He was still Deputy U. S. Marshal for Cochise County and he would arrest them if they didn't resist. Just as openly, he advertised his hope that they would resist.

You have only to keep in mind where he was standing that night in 1882.

In keeping with his promise to Clum and the Committee that he would not take the law into his own hands, he had so far kept to the legal letter in his war with the rustlers. In doing so, he had given the outlaws the first two shots, free. Those shots had done for Virgil and Morgan. The last of the Earps didn't intend to wait for the third shot.

Even in his grief over the death of young Morg, Wyatt could not bring himself to hunt from the shadows as did his enemies. The hyena might stalk through the outer brush, but the lion padded full into the middle of the clearing.

The next thing to do was get Virg out of town.

43 Major Crimes Each 10 Minutes, FBI Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the last 10 minutes, 43 major crimes were committed in the United States. That is the present crime rate, the FBI said today.

During each day of the first six months of this year, 34 persons were slain, 255 were assaulted, 51 were raped, and 607 cars were stolen.

Every day there were 3,714 larcenies, 167 robberies, and 1,405 burglaries.

There was a total of 1,128,350 major crimes in the six-month period—an average of one every 13.9 seconds.

The only encouraging sign reported by the FBI was that the crime rate in 1955 was slightly lower—seven-tenths of 1 per cent

—than during the corresponding period of 1954. It was the first drop since 1948.

The federal law enforcement agency said in its semi-annual bulletin that "the year 1955 may show a long overdue break in the upward crime trend of the past seven years."

The report was only slightly optimistic, however. It said that if the present crime rate continues, 1955 will be the fourth straight year in which more than two million major crimes are committed.

Repentant Burglar Sends Back Money

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Alpha Chi Rho Fraternity members at the University of Illinois can thank a burglar's conscience for the return of $489 taken from the fraternity house.

The burglar broke into the fraternity treasurer's room and made way with the money while the boys were attending a dance at the Champaign Country Club.

The money, accompanied by a message, "Forgive Me, God," pasted on an envelope from letters cut from a newspaper, was found in an automobile in the fraternity driveway two days later.

Man and Italian Prints
To Be Exhibited at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — A one man show by former Christopher resident Sava Radulovic, and a "Contemporary Italian Prints" collection are scheduled for exhibition this fall at Southern Illinois University's Allyn Galleries.

Radulovic, born in Yugoslavia entered the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, Washington University, in 1931, and was an instantaneous hit in his first New York exhibition nine years later. His works are represented in the City Art Museum, St. Louis, in the Pentagon, Washington, D. C., and in many private collections.

Radulovic's work, selected for exhibition at SIU from Oct. 24 through Nov. 24, includes oil on canvas and oil on gesso panels.

Major trends in the Roman Ve-tion. Lorentine and Northern Abstractionist schools of printmaking will be represented in the Italian print show, scheduled to go up Oct. 3. The show includes examples of work by De Chirico, Casarati, Campigli, Carro, Tosi, Santomaso, Carini, and a host of other Italian artists, ranging from mythological interpretations to abstract space compositions.

The Italian collection follows the "Young American Printmakers" exhibition, a lively Museum of Modern Art display which has been hanging in the Allyn Galleries since Sept. 16.

HOLLYWOOD!
TODAY!
MOVIES - TV - RADIO
by Erskine Johnson

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — On Stage, Off Stage, Upstage: What's become of the great love stories that rang box-office bells before spacemen, private eyes, sadistic killers and Marilyn Monroe's wiggle took over the screen?

Joseph Cotten of the celluloid romantic league wondered, too, until Playwright Sam Taylor gave him what Joe terms "the best answer I've heard." Said Sam: "It's the sickness of the age to avoid sentimentality."

Playing a cop menaced by a psychopathic killer in "The Killer Is Loose," his first Hollywood movie in two years, Cotten grinned: "We're being taught to love all of our neighbors in the world—the Russians, the Japanese, the Chinese. Why can't we love just one girl?" Then he winced: "The other day I read a new script, started out like good old-fashioned romance, until the boy and girl went out on a porch to look at the stars. But did they talk about how the stars made them feel? No, they got into a scientific discussion about how far apart the stars are."

Two current plots, "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing" and "Summertime" are entwined in the hearts and flowers that once lured the ladies, armed with extra handkerchiefs, to the movies. How these films do at the box office is being watched with considerable interest by Hollywood—and Joseph Cotten.

THERE'S MORE than just a financial stake in Author Edna Ferber's vision of the set of "Giant." It's the first time she's been on a profit-sharing basis with Hollywood but she has a special interest in the film version of her latest novel. She told me: "The book has so much to say that's true of the whole world and not just Texas. I was curious to see if it was coming across on the screen. And I'm happy to say that it is."

THE WITNET: Dept. of puns so awful they're funny. After Andrew Stone wrote, produced and directed "The Night Holds Terror," a Hollywoodman said: "Now you should become an actor. I'll cast you in my next film."

Stone grinned and said: "No, you're not without sin. You can't cast the first Stone."

HOLLYWOOD UNCENSORED

One of the owners of the New York apartment house where Joan Crawford will live with her new hubby (when they are in Manhattan) is ex-husband Franchot Tone. A Grace Kelly and Jean Pierre Aumont have resumed in Paris, "where they left off in Hollywood," were a Bali Holi twosome, applauding French warbler Gilbert Becaud. . . The Jess Barker-Son Hayward twins are with their pop on a High Sierra vacation. Then it's "Ghost Town," his third movie in a row for Jess. . . Dolores Grey freezing when asked about romance: "If it's possible," she bristles. "I feel that one's private life should remain a little bit private. Let people dig around and find out for themselves."

Kenneth Moore of "Genevieve" fame draws the lad in "Reach For the Sky." It's the true life yarn of Douglas Bader, the legless pilot who knocked Nazi planes out of the sky in World War II. . . Ha March of the $64,000 question is dating ex-Miss America Jackie Loughery. . . Wait till Gino Lombrogrida hears about the Los Angeles stripper who's billing herself as Gina Brigida. And as being an Italian peeler set.

THIS IS HOLLYWOOD. Mrs. Jones: When Alan Young won only raves for his performance in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes," his agent tripled his asking salary. Groans Alan: "It's been wonderful for my ego but I haven't worked in three months."

NOT IN THE SCRIPT: John Wayne on the set of "The Searchers": "I'm not an actor. I'm a reactor. I react to situations."

With Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis friendly again, theater owners are putting "Together Again" on marquees displaying their current film "Yankee Doodle Dandy." No, the studio isn't planning to retitile it "Burying the Hatchet."
